Borjomi Regional Session

EYP Georgia

"Feel Present, Change Future"

2010

Regional Session Focusing on the Environment

The 1st regional session of the EYP , Borjomi 2010, will take place between 24-26 September 2010, in Borjomi, Georgia. Over 50 young people will come together to discuss innovative solutions to international issues, touching questions from the environment and culture to trade and security affairs under the motto “Feel present, change future”. For three days the participants take part in various activities. Starting from teambuilding, where they learn different methods of ice-breaking, time-keeping and communication, followed by committee work, where they discuss their given topics in smaller groups, in order to finally present the results of their discussions at the General Assembly.

The session will focus on the environment, energy and sustainable development, and this is a theme which will be visible all throughout the event as the participants give their views on Corporate Social Responsibility and discuss how we – citizens, youth, politicians and corporations – can achieve a sustainable future.

Why Borjomi is Interesting for you?

Borjomi is a resort town in south-central Georgia with a population estimated of 14,445. It is one of the districts of the Samtskhe-Javakheti region and is situated in the northwestern part of the region in the picturesque Borjomi Gorge on the eastern edge of the Borjomi-Kharagauli National Park. The town is famous for its mineral water industry (which is presently the number one export of Georgia), the Romanov summer palace in Likani, and the WWF-site Borjomi-Kharagauli National Park. Borjomi mineral water is particularly well-known in those countries which were a part of the former the Soviet Union; the bottling of mineral water is a major source of income for the area. Because of the supposed curative powers of the area's mineral springs, it is a frequent destination for people with health problems. Borjomi is also home to the most extensive ecologically-themed amusement park in the Caucasus.

Saturday, 25th July

An amazing evening to conclude the session.

What do the dress codes mean?

The elements of the Session will take place in different venues, as participants, we should dress respectfully. Of course, we want you to feel comfortable. Below, we try to explain the dress codes to you:

Comfortable clothes and shoes for teambuilding

This means anything that you feel comfortable in if you have to run around outdoors and do various exercises (so high heels and mini-skirts would be rather uncomfortable).

Formal/elegant clothing

You will be in important buildings where several VIPs will be present. Suits for gentlemen, suit/skirt/dress for ladies for Opening Ceremony, General Assembly, Euroconcert and farewell party. No jeans.

Smart clothing

For Committee Work. This is rather flexible. Jeans are ok, but no jeans with holes, no t-shirts with holes, no trainers.

Casual clothing

For evening activities. Basically, anything you like.

This party is for freeing yourself from civilization. Sounds strange? Don't be afraid. We just want you to think, feel and be aware of your wild selves during this party. You may be clothed in whatever the oddest clothes. You may wear accessories, which may express your being part of the nature. You may paint oldest paintings, new abstractions or whatever. This party is for free imagination and being creative. And don't forget the motto of the party, which you can rely on: Back to nature.

Farewell Party

Motto: Evolution in drink

Last Day, 26 September, 2010

Try new drinks with your EYP friends, make new connections and most important, new tastes, be creative, and be imaginative. Maybe you find it difficult? No problem, with music, which will be heard during the party, your imagination will be stimulated; you will be motivated to create the strangest drinks in your life.
